Pot Pourri

Oriental Courtesy—
In preparation for a tea at the home of President Alexander G. Ruthven of the University of Michigan, a Chinese student memorized phrases from an etiquette book. Handled a cup of tea by a Cretan Chinese flabber-gasted Dr. Ruthven and his guests by saying "Thank you, sir or madam, as the case may be."

I said to myself almost in prayer,
It will start hair raising currents of air

When you give it the livid mortal slap,
It will make a homicidal roar,
It will shake its cast stone feet of floor.

It will gather speed till your nerves prepare
To bear it with a thunder clap,
But stand your ground,

As they say in war.
It is contemplated it is bedded true,
Everything its parts can do

Has been thought out and accounted for.
Your head touch now is going round
And when to stop it rests with you.

("A Trial Run," by Robert Frost.)

I stole forth dimly in the dripping pause Between two downpours to see what there was.

And a massed team had spread down compass ways
To a cone mountain in the midnight haze.

As if the first estimate were hers,
And as it measured in her calipers,
The mountain stood exalted in its place.

So love will take between the hands a face.
("Moon Compasses" by Robert Frost.)

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. L. G. Strange Director "Crop Testing Plan"

Agriculture in the first place, is not only an art but an important and noble art. It is, as well, a science which teaches what crops are to be planted in each kind of soil, and what operations are to be carried on, in order that the land may regularly produce the largest crops.

Equipped with his knowledge the farmer should aim at two goals, profit and pleasure; the object of the first is material return and of the second enjoyment.

This remarkable piece of wisdom, setting out in memorable words the very heart and soul of agriculture was written by one of the greatest agriculturists the world has known—Marcus Tullius Varro—Senator of Rome, about 50 B. C., just over two years ago, in his book entitled "On Agriculture."

The pleasure and enjoyment of farming, of which Varro writes, is no doubt that exalted feeling which comes to those who in their work are striving to excel, who are aiming to achieve the highest possible skill in their craft, and who experience such a love and pride in their work that they become veritably inspired with a desire to attain perfection itself.

Fortunate indeed the farmer who has received sufficient material return, and who can experience the enjoyment of which Varro speaks.

A FARMER'S MUSINGS

(By The Longhornman)

A POSSIBILITY—
After reading an article on annexation, which appeared in an Eastern Journal, this other angle of the situation presented itself.

Wouldn't it be a dreadful shock to the pride of those who favour union with the United States if Uncle Sam turned his back on the proposition?

Discontented people are not very welcome any where, and the fine old gentleman might consider that more better than profit would come to him through the big chore of converting 11 million Canadians into good Americans.

In view of this possibility, perhaps we'd better forget such weak-kneed doctrines as annexation and secession and strive for greater unity and progress through the more fruitful one of co-operation.

The barriers between east and west are not insurmountable, and the extreme of common sense and fairplay would do much to lay them low.

Good leadership on the part of our statesmen is the greatest need of the hour, and it is safe to say that when this is forthcoming a great host of people will gladly support every measure that promises to remove the unfair conditions that now exist.

Two SIDES OF THE STORY—
Although an individual recently pointed human nature in the most brutal fashion, it must be said that this old world is a bad place to live in.

Even if sin does exist in many shapes and forms, the great majority of people still revere the virtues of temperance, honesty and fidelity.

Selfishness may be the predominant factor in the lives of many, but generosity manifests itself in numerous ways when the voice of charity calls for aid.

Hatred is a great curse to the world at large, as it has been through all little child, or an older person whose self sacrificing spirit inspires others along the pathway of life.

It is all very well for the "Right Righteous" to assail the wickedness of other human beings, but the philosophy of Robert Burns is more divine in its character.

"Then gently scan your brother man,
Still gentler sister woman;
Though angry may gang a kennaun wrang,
To step aside is human;
Then at the balance let's be mute,
We rarely can adjust it;
What's done we partly may complete
But know not what's related."

COMPENSATION—
For a while at least, the Right Hon. R. B. Bennett will miss the clear atmosphere of his native land when he settles down in his new English home.

Strangers and returned exiles invariably become depressed by the weather conditions of the adopted Kingdom, and not a few are glad to make a hasty return to their former abodes.

from the channel, the North sea and the broader reaches of the Atlantic are soothing to the nerve, while the ever changing blues of the skies become a source of delight to devout lovers of nature.

From early springtime until late in the autumn rural England is a charming place to live in.

Wild flowers bloom in profusion in the meadows and woodlands, and when the trim hedgerows appear in their annual garbs of May, whole shores become glorious gardens.

Early morning sees the brave little skylark on his way to the clouds above and his cheerful melody is still heard long after he has disappeared from view.

The thrush and the blackbird make merry all day long, and in numerous districts the nightingale may be heard as the gentle twilight falls over the land.

This is the England that William Shakespeare and Robert Browke fondly cherished, and all who love it may well pray that his hills and dales will never respond to the shouts of invading legions.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
—(10:1)—

At all Christian Science Churches next Sunday, the subject of the Lesson Sermon will be "God the Preserver of Man." One of the Scriptural quotations contained in the Lesson-Sermon is Psalm 91:10, "There shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways."

One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is: "Angels, God's thoughts passing to man; spiritual intuitions, pure and good; the inspiration of goodness, purity, and immortality, counteracting all evil, sensuality, and Mortality."

CHEADLE

Mr. and Mrs. A. Silverstone left last week for a visit to Toronto where they will spend Christmas with their two daughters.

Mrs. J. A. MacDonald and Mr. W. Craig were winners of the grand prize in the bridge series which ended last Tuesday. Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. Novak were the winners of the high scores for the night and Mrs. Newmyer and Mr. Russell won the consolation.

Mrs. Newmyer is visiting friends in the district.

The W. A. held their meeting in the home of Mrs. McLean. It was well attended.

The dance on Friday was a huge success. Miss Iris Albertson was the winner of the five dollar door prize.

Congratulations to Miss Jean McGregor on her new position in Portmout. It is Portmout's gain and Cheadle's loss.

RADIO JOTTINGS

JACK DENNETT—
One of the most popular mikes in Western Canada is Jack Bennett, chief announcer at CPAC. Jack is a veteran in the radio business, having been connected with broadcasting since 1921, and is not only popular with listeners, but with the entire staff at the station.

Little known to radio listeners is the fact that Jack is a born dialectician, imitating with ease the accents of Scotch, Irish, German, Jewish, as well as practically all English dialects (Jack is English born). His pet names in this field are rarely heard on the air, however, as he confines his vocal humour to amusing members of the staff.

As a diversion, Jack is often prone to making odd remarks before he opens the microphone. He has often wondered himself what would happen if listeners heard the whole audience, as he said something like "Ladies and gentlemen, I don't think you'll like it— but it's coming at you anyway." Then he opens the mike and says— "The Program!" Nothing has happened yet but you never can tell!

Offers from bigger stations and sponsors have so far left Jack unmoved. He likes Calgary, and he prefers to stay here. Despite all the offers and the compliments heaped upon his head, he continues to remain unmoved, a generous, likeable fellow, and a swell announcer!

THE WEATHER—ISN'T IT GRAND

With the most gorgeous sunsets and sunsets provided by nature that would baffle the skill of any painter,
we quote these lines again.
"Twas the Death of a Day, and I gazed with delight,
On the pink-tinted shroud o'er the
brow of the night;
On the sky's blushing West—that no
skilled hand could trace, O'er the high welkin traced, with ineffable grace."

"And I heard something say in the calm quiet air,
Tis the death of a day and his watchers are here;
Tis the proud Form of Time, moving downward to die.

With his honors sublime—floating back on the sky.
And the weather, what a boon it is to break the ice of silence on many an occasion. So safe and indisputable compared with such delicate topics as one's political leanings, one's nationality or religious convictions.

What tempests have arisen from the British economist again made a prediction. Unless steps were taken "to restore the world's buying power and prevent the world business machine
from coming to a complete standstill
within the limited time available to save it," disaster, in his judgment, must follow. He pointed out that the policy of "pump-priming" (which includes rearmament) must some time come to an end. The general opinion, he said, was that large scale borrowings for these purposes could not go on much longer than twelve months.

Mr. George laid emphasis upon the vital need for the lowering of trade barriers and the re-establishment of international trade. He praised the trade pact recently concluded between Britain and the United States and between the United States and Canada as a step in this direction. Unless the policy which these pacts indicated were widely extended, he said,
"the cause of the world's peace and prosperity would be so greatly reduced that the present social order could not be maintained."

We are not, for our part, anxious to see the present social order maintained. We think it has outlived its usefulness, and must be superseded.
But we do not wish to see the old order go down in chaos and bloodshed.
We do not wish to see Fascist or Nazi barbarism rise upon its ruins. We wish to see the transition to a new order made possible by intelligent effort on the part of the democracies.

—Western Farm Leader.

PAISH GIVES WARNING

When Sir George Paish, noted British economist, talks for publication the world takes notice.

The other day in Winnipeg, the British economist again made a prediction. Unless steps were taken "to restore the world's buying power and

from coming to a complete standstill
within the limited time available to

CANADIAN EXPORTS AND INDUSTRIES

Exports of newspaper from Canada in the last fiscal year, which ended with March, were valued at $120, 007,000. This was an increase of about ten millions over the value of $111,000,000 in the fiscal year ended March, 1937. In the earlier period wheat ranked first at $223,461,000, while last year it came second with a value of only $110,273,000. Meanwhile the volume of wheat exports had dropped from 227,896,000 to 82, 625,000 bushels.

Of five leading exports in the last fiscal year, three were foods. Meats ranked seventh among export commodities at $11,362,000; fish ninth at $28,822,000; and wheat four eleventh at $22,221,000. The United States provides the largest market for fish;
but meats and wheat flour go most largely to Great Britain. Wood pulp ranked eighth at $29,260,000; automobiles tenth at $25,299,000; and aluminum in bars twelfth at $20,748,000.

UNITY MOVEMENT

Camrose—The newest unit in the rapidly developing provincial movement for united political action at the next general election was created here last week when over 200 citizens met in the Bailey theatre for a discussion of the economic and political situation.

The Camrose Constituency Unity
Association turned over to the executive it elected the responsibility of selecting a member to represent the association in the Unity Council of Alberta. It was decided to establish a preliminary organization in every polling subdivision of the riding by the election of an association committee, consisting of one woman, one man,
and one direct representative of the
of the youth in each poll.

RAYON PULP

The raw material of artificial silk.

artificial wool and cellophane is now manufactured in Canada on a scale of world importance. At present three Canadian mills with a combined capacity of 200,000 tons a year are making rayon pulp. The output last year was approximately 30 per cent of the world's estimated production of 900,000 tons.

Rayon pulp is a highly purified sulphate pulp made largely from spruce and western hemlock.

THE TWO PRAYERS

Last night my little boy confessed to me
Some childish wrong;
And kneeling at my knee
He prayed with tears,
"Dear God, make me a man
Like Daddy, wise and strong,
I know you can."
Then while he slept
I knelt beside his bed,
Confessed my sins,
And prayed with low-bowed head,
"O God, make me a child
Like my child here
Pure, guileless,
Trusting Thee with faith sincere."
